WEBSITE REPAIR · WORDPRESS

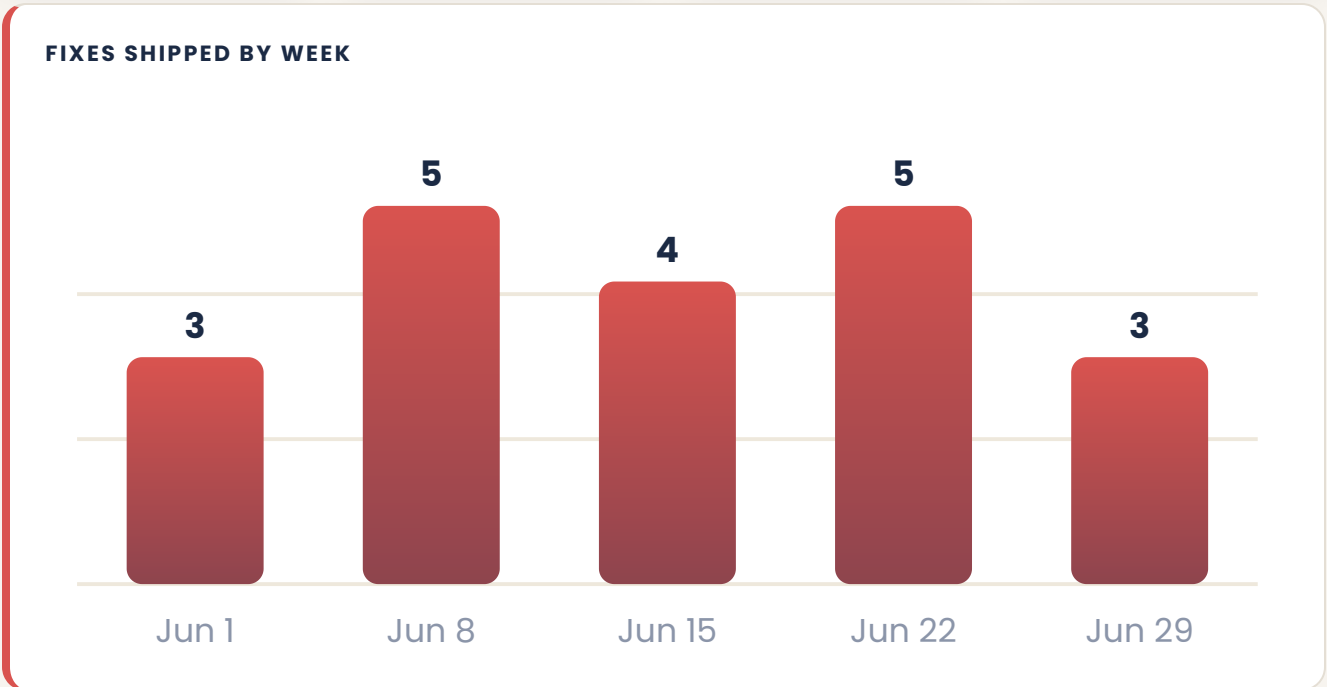

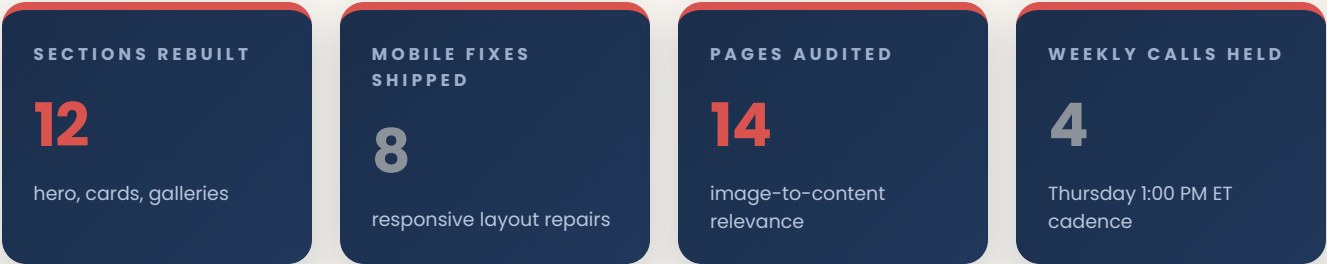

THE BOTTOM LINE

The site's worst usability problems are gone: hero readability, broken service cards, and mobile layout all shipped this month. Visitors now see a site that matches the quality of the work Onsite pours.

CHAPTER ONE

Performance Snapshot

Site repair is conversion work in disguise. Twelve sections rebuilt means twelve fewer reasons for a homeowner to bounce to a competitor.

◆ MONTH TAKEAWAY

A concrete company's website is its portfolio. With the layout stable and images matched to the right pages, the site is finally ready to carry paid traffic whenever Onsite wants to turn that on.

CHAPTER TWO

Where the Work Went

Project board

Hero section repair Dark overlay at 45 to 55% opacity restored text readability over photos.	SHIPPED Done
Service cards: Concrete, Landscaping, Pavers Solid backgrounds restored, text overlap resolved, letterboxed images recropped.	SHIPPED Done
Content relevance audit Matching every image to its page so galleries sell the right service.	IN PROGRESS 14 pages

What moved this month

- 1 Mobile experience restored, with eight responsive fixes covering the layouts most homeowners actually see.
- 2 Service cards rebuilt so the three core offerings read clean on every screen size.
- 3 Weekly call cadence held, four for four, keeping every fix reviewed and approved fast.

CHAPTER THREE

The Plan for Next Month

Priorities on deck

- 1 Finish the content relevance audit so every page shows the matching project photos.
- 2 Add before-and-after project galleries, the highest-converting content a concrete site can run.
- 3 Scope a Google Business Profile content plan to start capturing local search the way the site now deserves.

You can't pour a bad foundation and expect the house to stand. June rebuilt the site's foundation.
