What we completed in August

AUGUST
RECAP

- Reconfigured the account after delivery stopped and restored delivery following Google's review.
- Completed a call-volume recovery audit and defined a controlled Search replacement around qualified estimates.
- Published two Fairfield service pages with focused FAQs and maintained the dedicated paid-search destination.
- Kept duplicate call, form, and micro-action events separate from real estimate outcomes.

Primary goal

SEPTEMBER PLAN

Finish the controlled Search replacement, validate connected calls and accepted forms, and use qualified estimate quality to guide September delivery.

Next planning period

September 2026

EXECUTIVE ANALYSIS

The account produced very inexpensive traffic, but the blended CPC is not directly comparable to a pure Search benchmark because the placement mix differs. Traffic efficiency is therefore a directional strength, not proof of qualified lead efficiency.

The material September decision is measurement quality. Connected service-fit calls and accepted forms must become the primary evidence before the controlled Search replacement is treated as complete.
