THE BOTTOM LINE

June is when HVAC accounts earn their keep, and this one did: call volume rose with the heat while search stayed disciplined on cost. One flag remains: LSA verification still needs to clear after the March reset.

CHAPTER ONE

Performance Snapshot

Summer intent arrived and the account caught it. AC repair searches drove the month, with GBP posts keeping the brand visible in every neighborhood we target.

◆ MONTH TAKEAWAY

Seasonal demand is doing half the work right now, which is exactly when discipline matters most. Keeping cost per call flat during peak season means the account is buying real jobs, not just summer noise.

NEEDS VERIFICATION

Status still needs verification after the March 2 background-check reset. Highest-leverage fix on the account.

What moved this month

- 1

Call volume grew 21% as cooling-season demand hit, with the keyword mix already rotated toward AC intent.
- 2

Cost per call held under $15 during the most competitive HVAC month of the year.
- 3

Full GBP cadence delivered, 17 hyper-localized posts keeping the profile active across the service area.

CHAPTER THREE

The Plan for Next Month

Priorities on deck

- 1 Clear the LSA verification so the Google-guaranteed badge can start capturing emergency calls.
- 2 Add a dedicated emergency-repair ad group with call-only ads for after-hours searches.
- 3 Rotate July GBP topics toward heat-wave prep and maintenance-plan offers.

Peak season rewards the accounts that prepared in the off-season. June's numbers are the payoff for that discipline.
