

SOCIAL CONTENT SERIES

This Week With BOK

Family Law & Mediation • August 19-22, 2026

01

WEDNESDAY WISDOM

Therapy Should Not Feel Like a Mystery

02

FAMILY FRIDAY

Kids Need Room to Feel the Change

03

SATURDAY SOLUTIONS

Questions to Bring Before Child Therapy

BOWE • O'NEIL • KOCELKO | LAW & MEDIATION SERVICES

BOKLAWFIRM.COM

WEDNESDAY WISDOM

Therapy Should Not Feel Like a Mystery

Finished Graphic

WEDNESDAY WISDOM

Therapy Should Not Feel Like a Mystery

Child therapy during family change can stay clearer when parents know what to ask.

Kids rely on routine when one home becomes two.

Big feelings are allowed, even when words are hard.

A calm conversation can help you decide if support fits.

Listen to Donuts and Divorce, episode 58.

BOKLAWFIRM.COM

Feed size: 1080 × 1350

Still: final/wednesday-wisdom.png

Motion: video/BOK-Wednesday-Wisdom.mp4 · 8 seconds · Ken Burns on the hero, chrome locked

Post date: Wednesday, August 19, 2026

Logo: exact BOK seal extracted from the July weekly packet

The Post

Child therapy during family change can stay clearer when parents know what to ask. Kids rely on structure and routine. When one home becomes two, that rhythm can feel interrupted.

Big feelings are allowed, even when words are hard. A calm conversation with a qualified professional can help you decide if extra support fits your child right now.

This week on Donuts and Divorce, Dorothy talks with Dr. Allyson Casey-Jovanovich about what every parent needs to know before starting child therapy. The episode is educational. It is not a recommendation of any specific provider.

Listen to episode 58:

<https://www.buzzsprout.com/2136014/episodes/19653032>

- Kids rely on routine when one home becomes two.
- Big feelings are allowed, even when words are hard.
- A calm conversation can help you decide if support fits.

At BOK Law & Mediation Services, we help Western PA families keep children at the center while the adults work through the legal pieces.

Listen to Donuts and Divorce, episode 58.

This post is for general educational purposes only and is not legal advice.

#WednesdayWisdom #DonutsAndDivorce #ChildTherapy
#WesternPA #FamilyLaw #Mediation #BOKLaw

VISIT BOKLAWFIRM.COM

Alt text and hold

Alt text: A BOK Wednesday Wisdom graphic. A mediation conversation sits above three notes about routine, feelings, and asking whether child therapy fits. Exact BOK seal at lower left. BOKLAWFIRM.COM in the footer.

Hold for Dorothy or Rachael. Educational only. Western PA, not Pittsburgh-only. Pair with episode 58. Use the still in feed or the 8-second motion cut, not both in one slot unless they want a carousel.

FAMILY FRIDAY

Kids Need Room to Feel the Change

Finished Graphic

Feed size: 1080 × 1350

Still: final/family-friday.png

Motion: video/BOK-Family-Friday.mp4 · 8 seconds · Ken Burns on the hero, chrome locked

Post date: Friday, August 21, 2026

Logo: exact BOK seal extracted from the July weekly packet

The Post

A quiet evening at home can matter more than a packed weekend plan. When a family is changing, small steady moments help children feel safe.

There is no prize for a perfect Friday. A familiar meal, a short walk, or ten quiet minutes together can be enough. Green space, a board game, or the same bedtime story in both homes can do more than a crowded calendar.

- Keep one small routine the same in both homes.
- Let kids have questions without rushing the answers.
- Celebrate ordinary time, not a perfect schedule.

Children do not need a highlight reel. They need to know the adults are paying attention, the plan is clear enough for tonight, and their feelings still have a place to land.

At BOK Law & Mediation Services, we help Western PA families move forward while keeping what matters most at the center.

Steady moments help children feel safe during family change.

This post is for general educational purposes only and is not legal advice.

#FamilyFriday #CoParenting #WesternPA
#FamilyLaw #Mediation #BOKLaw

VISIT BOKLAWFIRM.COM

Alt text and hold

Alt text: A BOK Family Friday graphic. A family sits together at home above three notes about routine, questions, and ordinary time. Exact BOK seal at lower left. BOKLAWFIRM.COM in the footer.

Hold for Dorothy or Rachael. Educational only. Western PA, not Pittsburgh-only. Use the still in feed or the 8-second motion cut, not both in one slot unless they want a carousel.

SATURDAY SOLUTIONS

Questions to Bring Before Child Therapy

Finished Graphic

Feed size: 1080 × 1350

Still: final/saturday-solutions.png

Motion: video/BOK-Saturday-Solutions.mp4 · 8 seconds · Ken Burns on the hero, chrome locked

Post date: Saturday, August 22, 2026

Logo: exact BOK seal extracted from the July weekly packet

The Post

If you are thinking about child therapy, you do not need every answer before you ask for guidance. A short list can make the first conversation feel less overwhelming.

Bring notes. Ask how the work is explained to children. Ask how parents stay informed without turning the child into a messenger. Ask what ordinary signs suggest extra support may help.

- What will sessions look like for my child?
- How are parents involved without putting kids in the middle?
- What signs suggest extra support may help?

These questions are for learning, not for building a court strategy. Every child and every family is different. A therapist's job is care. A lawyer's job is the legal plan. Keep those lanes clear.

At BOK Law & Mediation Services, we help Western PA families gather the right questions before the next hard conversation.

These questions are for learning, not for building a court strategy.

This post is for general educational purposes only and is not legal advice.

#SaturdaySolutions #ChildTherapy #CoParenting
#WesternPA #FamilyLaw #Mediation #BOKLaw

VISIT BOKLAWFIRM.COM

Alt text and hold

Alt text: A BOK Saturday Solutions graphic. A parent sits with a notebook above three questions to bring before child therapy. Exact BOK seal at lower left. BOKLAWFIRM.COM in the footer.

Hold for Dorothy or Rachael. Educational only. Western PA, not Pittsburgh-only. These questions are for learning, not court strategy. Use the still in feed or the 8-second motion cut, not both in one slot unless they want a carousel.